Not illustrated. 1888 Excerpt: . part of the curve, corresponding to equation (1) of complete contact, is the curve of good transmission. From equations (1) and (2) it will be noticed that the pressure required for good transmission of sound is dependent on the intensity of the sound, good sound being transmitted if 8 is less than P. The sound in the receiver is loudest when 8 is nearly equal to P. In experimenting with electro-motive forces greater than 3 volts, we met with unsatisfactory results. Good sound was not transmitted except under heavy pressure, and all attempts to obtain satisfactory measurements failed on account of the well-known disturbances set up in the microphone by the current itself. In certain of our experiments the resistance of the primary circuit was diminished by joining a number of cells in parallel. The uniform result was, that the sound transmitted was louder. The results of our experiments may be summed up as follows: --The resistance of the primary circuit, and especially that of the battery, should be as low as possible; the pressure at the contact should be no greater than is required to transmit good sound, --that is, it should be a little greater than that required to give the maximum current; with the present form of Blake contact, no electro-motive force greater than 2 volts should be used; and, finally, the contact should be carefully guarded against jarring. Our work should be considered, not as a complete investigation, but as part...
